The Long and short of it is this :

Things went a bit peek tong when a folder was created and used to unload some new media, web site hit a glitch and the gallery fell over corrupting the data :S

I've already spoken to john, and he's having a look at it now.

We had something similar happen once before on the old web site.

John managed to recover most of the pictures and put them in an archive folder.

Lets hope there will be something to recover this time.
